WASHINGTON.

THE LIQUOR INTEREST DISTURBED.

Abrogation of the Fishery Treaty.—Indian Territory Crookedness.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Gardiner G. Hubbard's name is mixed up with some crooked stories about the investigation by ex-Senator Patterson into the issue of bonds by railroads, based on lands in the Indian Territory, which are only conditional and for which no warrants have been issued.

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Rectifiers and compounders of spirituous liquors are quite angry because under the new revenue law they will have to give bonds, and they have sent a delegation here to get a joint resolution passed repealing the obnoxious clause.

THE FISHERY GRIEVANCE.

This government will probably soon give notice that the United States desires to abrogate the free fisheries and free trade in fish clauses in the Treaty of Washington at the earliest possible day.

SENATOR HOAR'S RESOLUTION.

Senator Hereford spoke at length on Mr. Hoar's resolution, giving a history of the Supervisors of Election, and of the addition of political legislation to appropriation bills. Senator Hoar is absent. Messrs. Blaine, Withers and Beck are expected to speak on on the same resolution.

THE HENRY MEMORIAL.

No one objecting the House of Representatives today passed a joint resolution authorizing the printing of a portrait of the late Professor Joseph Henry, to accompany the memorial volume heretofore ordered, and appropriating five hundred dollars to defray the cost. This has already passed the Senate and now goes to the President for signature. On getting this it will become the first act of the Forty-sixth Congress.

THE FISHERY TREATY.

Senator Hamlin presents the joint resolutions passed by the state of Maine setting forth that justice to fishermen and to the fishing interests of the country require the termination of articles 18 and 21 of the treaty with Great Britain, and instructing its Senators and requesting its Representatives to use all honorable means to accomplish this.

NEW YORK.

Heavy Snow Storm in Northern New York.

MALONE, N. Y., April 11.—A very heavy snow storm set in last evening and continues unabated. About eight inches has fallen, and it is drifted badly. Country roads are again blocked up. Champlain reports about six inches, still snowing; Ellenburgh, N. Y., says about six inches has fallen, still snowing and drifting badly; Brasher reports five inches, still snowing, and Ogdensburg reports 3 inches.

A Parable for Federal Sowers.

WASHINGTON, April 11th.—The House showed a disposition this afternoon to extend its investigations to Commissioner Le Duc whose distribution of seeds does not get the unqualified approval of members. Mr. Cox (Dem., N. Y.) improved the opportunity to raise a laugh by reading the parable of the sower to show that Congress should not condemn the Commissioner because all his seeds would not grow and bring forth fruit, one hundred, sixty, or even thirty fold. He thought they should either let him alone or abolish the whole bureau fungus growth on our form of government.

The House gave Le Duc an extra $25,000 in spite of the opposition of the Appropriation Committee. The farmer members turned out in force and passed the amendment.

Foreign News.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 11.—An attempt was made today to assassinate the Governor of Kieff.

THE KHEDIVE.

LONDON, April 12.—A dispatch from Constantinople says the Sultan has offered to depose the Khedive, by substituting in his place Halim Pasha.

DOUBLE TAX ON BEER.

BERLIN, April 11.—The German Federal Council will, it is expected, double the tax on beer.

THE PORTE SUBMITS COUNTER PROPOSALS.

LONDON, April 12.—A Constantinople dispatch says the Porte has submitted counter proposals in regard to the Roumelian difficulty.

THE STRIKE.

LONDON, April 12.—All is quiet at Durham.

General Grant in British India.

NEW YORK, April 11.—On the 9th of March General Grant was at Benares. He received great attention at Bombay, where after a state dinner he gave a reception to Parsees, Brahmins, Arabic, native and English officers. Thence he visited Allahabad, Agra, and Jeypore, where he was received by the maharajah, and an elephant ride was taken to Ambur. The General was received at Delhi with troops and salutes. At Lucknow on the 5th of March a ball was given in his honor.

On the 8th he left Lucknow for Benare. The scene was brilliant, striking and Oriental. All the British officers under General Chamberlain were at the station, and a line of fifty elephants drawn up at one side were inspected by the general. A battalion of European troops formed a guard of honor. As the general departed, the guard gave a royal salute, dropping colors, the band playing "Hail, Columbia," and the battery of artillery in an adjoining field fired twenty-one guns. At various stations on the railway British officers attended with guards paid respects to the party.

On Guard at Sitka.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—An order has been sent by telegraph to the commander of the United States steamer Alaska, now at Sitka, to remain there until all danger has passed. The accounts from that quarter are somewhat conflicting.

The Small Bonds of Georgia.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Commissioner Raum decides that the small bonds issued by the state of Georgia are not "bills of credit" within the meaning of the Constitution, as it does not appear that they are issued with an intention to use them as currency. These bonds in denominations of five, ten, twenty, fifty and one hundred dollars are issued to the amount of three hundred thousand dollars, bearing interest at four per centum, to meet state obligations falling due this year. In size, shape, color and general design they closely imitate greenbacks, but read as a bond and have coupons attached. The smaller denominations will undoubtedly pass as currency, and such, it can scarcely be questioned, was the intention.

Observance of Good Friday.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Good Friday was observed here today in an appropriate manner. Business at the Stock, Produce and Cotton Exchanges was entirely suspended, while many stores and ware-houses were closed. None of the state courts were in session, and very little done around the municipal and federal departments. Impressive services were held in the churches, which were attended by large congregations.

In Brooklyn the courts and municipal departments were also closed, and the churches filled with worshippers.

FLIGHT OF THE FREEDMEN.

CONGRESSMAN RAINEY ON THE EXODUS.

Sad Condition of the Refugees in Kansas.

NEW YORK, April 11.—A committee appointed at a meeting of the citizens of Leavenworth, Kansas, have issued an appeal to the country to send aid for the fugitive negroes there. The appeal says about one thousand colored people are now there, and thousands more are said to be on the way. They have no money and but little clothing. Many have died and scores are sick from pneumonia. They have no definite place of refuge and no leaders to properly direct them. They need present relief, and the committee appeals to the whole country for contributions. The committee say: "We shall send trustworthy men to look up places where such of them as can colonize can find good government land or cheap railroad land. We expect also to send good and intelligent men with them to their several places of settlement to assist them in beginning their labors. We invite the friends of humanity in all parts of the country to help us in getting these people settled. We shall be glad to know of every opportunity of finding a home for a single one of these families." Professor O. C. Palmer is treasurer of the committee. Correspondence in regard to the matter may be addressed to Hon. John S. Stockton, Mayor of Wyandotte, or Rev. R. M. Tunnel, secretary of the committee.

CONGRESSMAN RAINEY'S VIEWS.

Congressman Rainey says a colored man cannot under the present circumstances make a living at the South. He states as a reason for the negroes being without money that for 14 years they have been paid, not with money but with script, which is redeemable only by the planter giving it. The negroes begin to see the disadvantages they are laboring under, and they now flee West to obtain opportunity to develop into manhood. Mr. Rainey hopes intelligent men will give aid and direction to this migration, which now lacks organization and system. He does not think it is a political movement, but it will have great effect upon the politics of the South in time.

Railway Accident in Russia.

LONDON, April 12.—The Daily News St. Petersburg dispatch says nine persons were killed and twenty-five injured by an accident to a mail train on one of the roads running to Moscow.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

THE LAST DAY OF THE SESSION.

FRIDAY, April 11.

SENATE.

Mr. Tobey reported back from the Committee on the Judiciary, House act establishing a harbor line for the westerly side of Providence river. Passed in concurrence to be engrossed.

Mr. Tobey called from the table the resolution for the appointment of a Joint Special Committee to report at the May session a bill providing for the appointment of a State Board of Valuation.

Mr. Allen took the view that this was no time to talk about making a valuation. Let us pay our taxes a few years more, without grumbling, he said, and try to reduce them by holding shorter sessions.

House resolution appropriating $100 for keeping the Soldiers and Sailors Monument in Providence in repair, was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Littlefield, of Lincoln, reported back from the Committee on Public Health, the bill providing that no burial ground shall be located within two hundred and fifty feet of any dwelling-house without the consent of the owner of the building. Read and passed.

[The Lieutenant Governor in the chair.]

Mr. Allen offered the following resolution;

Resolved, That the thanks of the Senate are due and are hereby tendered to His Excellency Gov. Van Zandt for the eminently impartial, dignified and courteous manner in which he has presided over its deliberations during the past year.

Mr. Tillinghast, Bourn, Allen, Littlefield (of Lincoln), Nourse, Clarke (of Cumberland) Richardson and Fisher each paid a graceful tribute to the Governor, and spoke feelingly of the kindly relations existing among the Senators and the officers of the Senate.

The resolution was then passed unanimously by a rising vote.

The Governor thanked the Senate for its testimonial. He spoke of his years of service under the state government, which he said comprehended about one-third of his life. He felt deeply indebted to the state. He had learned all that was practical or useful to him as a presiding officer in this old State House. He would never forget what the people of the state had done for him, nor the obligations which he was under to the Senators for their kindly assistance and advice.

[The Governor in the Chair.]

Mr. Watson reported back from the Committee on Accounts resolution to pay the account of the Rhode Island News Company for newspapers, amounting to $628.23. Read and passed.

The Senate then took another recess, at the expiration of which Mr. Tillinghast reported back from the Committee on the Judiciary House act for the relief of certain savings banks.

The substitute was adopted and sent immediately to the House.

A resolution was passed continuing unfinished business to the May session.

House resolution to pay officers in attendance on the General Assembly during the session was passed in concurrence.

The Senate then adjourned sine die.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Senate bill in relation to the carrying of passenger baggage on railroads, was received, read, and passed in concurrence to be engrossed.

Mr. Stearns, of Lincoln, asked to be excused from serving as a member of the Joint Special Committee on Retrenchment and Reform, and Mr. Fay, of Newport, was appointed in his place.

The Speaker announced as members on the part of the House of the Joint Special Committee on the Reform School, Messrs. Miles of East Providence, Spooner of Bristol and Clarke of South Kingstown.

Mr. Fay, from the Committee on Finance, offered a resolution authorizing the Select Committee on the Narragansett tribe of Indians to sit during the recess. Read and passed.

Mr. Jenckes, from the Committee on Education, reported back Senate bill authorizing the School Committee of the town of Bristol to elect a Superintendent of Schools, with an amendment making the law apply to all the towns. Continued to the May session.

The bill known as the truancy act was taken from the table, and on motion of Mr. Sherman, of Woonsocket, continued to the May session.

Resolution concerning the coinage of silver was taken from the table and indefinitely postponed.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Mr. Payne, from the Committee on the Judiciary, reported a substitute for the several bills concerning Savings banks and Institutions for Savings, entitled "An Act for the Relief of Certain Institutions for Savings."

After a few remarks by Mr. Newell, of Lincoln, the bill was passed without a division.

Mr. Wightman, of Woonsocket, called from the table Senate bill in amendment of the liquor law, providing for search and seizure, which came from the Committee on the judiciary without recommendation.

Mr. Smith, of Providence, moved the bill be continued to the May session.

Messrs. Smith of Providence, Stiness of Providence and Sheffield of Newport, were in favor of continuance to the May session, and Messrs. Collins of of North Providence, Wightman of Woonsocket, and Carpenter of Providence, were in favor of the passage of the bill.

The question was then taken on the motion to postpone to the May session, and the motion failed by a vote of 14 yeas to 37 nays.

The Search and Seizure Bill was again taken up, when Mr. Congdon, of East Greenwich, offered a technical amendment to the first Section.

Mr. Newell, of Lincoln, called attention to the fact that any amendments to the bill would necessitate its return to the Senate, and tend to kill the bill. The amendments were adopted, all the same, by a vote of 24 yeas to 12 nays.

Mr. Stiness offered an amendment to provide that search warrants shall be issued on complaint of three reputable persons, instead of one. This amendment was lost by a vote of 12 yeas to 28 nays.

After some remarks by Mr. Chickering, of Pawtucket, and Mr. Newell, of Lincoln, Mr. Wightman, of Woonsocket, moved that the whole matter be indefinitely postponed.

The bill as amended was passed in concurrence, without a division.

Notice was then ordered sent to the Senate that the House had completed its business, and was ready to adjourn.

Then there was a mock session, with the usual and rather more than the usual amount of fun.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

EVERYTHING GOES WRONG

In the bodily mechanism when the liver gets out of order. Constipation, dyspepsia, contamination of the blood, imperfect assimilation are certain to ensue. But it is easy to prevent these consequences, and remove their cause, by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which stimulates the biliary organ and regulates its action. The direct result is a disappearance of the pain beneath the ribs and through the shoulder blade, the nausea, headaches, yellowness of the skin, furred look of the tongue, and sour odor of the breath, which characterize liver complaint. Sound digestion and a regular habit of body are blessings also secured by the use of this celebrated restorative of health, which imparts a degree of vigor to the body which is its best guarantee of safety from malarial epidemics. Nerve weakness and over-tension are relieved by it, and it improves both appetite and sleep. a9-1w-naj

The progress of modern times is no where more marked than in the art of dyeing. The beautiful new colors made at the Springfield Dye House, of which C. Banning is agent, far surpass the brightest dyes that adorned Sheba's beauteous queen. Try them. a12

A CAUTION TO OUR READERS.

The almost invariable fruit of a successful invention is a host of inferior imitations. The patent LINOLEUM floor cloth is no exception to this rule. Its durability and beauty is proved beyond controversy. Be sure in purchasing the goods that you look on the back of the cloth for "LINOLEUM." The word is on the back of every square yard. None other is genuine. All carpet dealers keep it. a12-1t

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French or English. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, New York. m25-4w

ARTOTYPE!

J. A. WILLIAMS, the original, is ready to take and fill orders for this style of pictures at his room, No. 1 Touro block, Bellevue avenue, Newport, R. I. The Artotype process is good enough to satisfy the most exacting and will for this reason receive opposition from none but those who will have lost all opportunity to benefit by its immense advantage. The Artotypes are far superior to Silver Prints or old style Photo made from the same negative with the additional merit of being as permanent as a steel engraving. Artotype is a name given by the proprietor of a patent for printing by means of a process in fatty inks and in colored inks. The price of photo in silver I will take for about one half of the old process or less than any other Photographer charges for the same style of work. J. A. W. n9

SHOULD READ
THE NEWPORT JOURNAL.

Newport Daily News, and the Newport Journal.

The Newport Daily News is published every afternoon, (Sundays excepted), at the News building, 13 Church street, by Davis & Pitman.

The Newport Journal is published at the same office every Saturday morning and contains a selection of the best matter in the Daily, including editorial discussions of the topics of the week, literary miscellanies and at least one good story, the latest markets and a complete and comprehensive summary of the news,—local and general. The Journal is a large 32 column paper and contains a large amount of reading matter that is valuable to readers in town or country who desire a good Newport paper, but who do not take a daily from this city.

Complaints regarding the irregular or improper delivery of either paper should be sent to the office at once.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

The Daily News, $6 per annum, or 12 cents a week, payable to carrier.

The Newport Journal will be sent to any address in the United States, postage paid, for $2 a year. A discount of 50 cents is made when the WHOLE YEAR is paid STRICTLY IN ADVANCE.

These terms are invariable.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Ordinary advertisements, $1 a square, for the first insertion, and 25 cents for each continuance. Ten lines, or less, in this type, make a square. Advertisements in reading matter, are charged for, at 50 per cent. extra and are subject to editorial revision. A discount on these rates is allowed on all advertisements ordered in the Daily for one week or longer. Funeral notices 50 cents each. Yearly advertisers are limited to their immediate business and are allowed twenty-five changes a year. The circulations of the News and Journal being necessarily distinct, an advertisement inserted in both papers will reach entirely different sets of readers. As further inducement for advertisers to use both the News and Journal, a liberal discount on the combined rates is made.

PRINTING.

Connected with the News is a large and well appointed job printing office. All orders for work in this department will be promptly filled, and at reasonable prices. The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited.

The job office has recently been supplied with new type and a new press, especially adapted to fine work. Liberal supplies of choice papers, envelopes and cards, always on hand. Prices as low as possible for first class work.

SATURDAY, APRIL 12, 1879.

The hard times have reached Japan.

Speaker Randall has at last announced the House committees and general business is in order.

Our neighbors at Providence are happy. The first premium at the New York dog show was awarded to a pug of that city.

And now Gen. Grant has been treated to an elephant ride from Allahabad to Joypore by his royal highness the great Maharajah. Goodness gracious!

The Boston Post will take notice that soon after the late election wicked Chicago had a reminder of Sodom and Gomorrah. A red hot meteor, a foot in diameter, fell in the southerly part of the city.

The steamer Plymouth Rock has been sold by Jarrett & Palmer to Charles W. Schofield, president of the Wasatch and Jordan Valley Railroad, and will probably run during the coming season between New York city, Long Branch and Coney Island.

One of the severest things ever uttered by that iconoclast, Wendell Phillips, was this of the great lawyer, Rufus Choate, referring to his success in clearing criminals: "This is Choate, who made it safe to murder, and of whose health thieves asked before they began to steal."

The bill conferring upon women the right to vote for members of the school committee in Massachusetts has received the sanction of both branches of the Legislature. It gives every woman who is a citizen of the Commonwealth, twenty-one years of age and upwards, and has the educational and other qualifications necessary in the case of a male citizen, the privilege of participating in the election of school committee.

ALL IS FAIR IN POLITICS.

It may be that all is fair in politics, but most people do not exactly see it in that light. It is difficult to tell why honorable and upright dealing should not be required in political life as well as in business circles, and yet many men act on the contrary assumption. The proceedings in Congress thus far during the present session have been made up, chiefly, of small and petty tricks by which each party strives to get the better of the other. Neither is this sharp practice confined altogether to the political parties as such, but it is seen in the conduct of factions and individuals of the same party. Many of these tricks are of the most shameful character and should put every man out of the roll of even nominal statesmanship who resorts to such practices. No matter how good a cause may be nor how earnestly a member may desire its success, it is not the part of high toned public men to resort to low arts for the sake of victory.

The Washington correspondents, just now, report a scheme of this kind that if carried out cannot fail in the end to greatly harm not only those engaged in it but the cause which they espouse. According to a rule of Congress members are allowed to introduce bills on Mondays under the roll call of the states. It is known that on next Monday two members from Maine, the first state to be called, have bills in readiness which they propose to offer and ask to have referred to the appropriate committees. But a minority of the House do not wish these bills to be presented so as to be acted upon. They are afraid to trust them to the decision of the body to which they belong, and so it is proposed to head off the matter by the following plans. When Maine is called Speaker Randall can recognize any member he chooses from that state. If he recognizes Murch and Ladd, the National Bank and Coinage bills will be introduced. If he recognizes Frye or some other Republican from Maine, the man recognized can occupy the entire hour himself by introducing long bills and demanding that every one be read. This is said to be Frye's intention. If recognized he will introduce some long bill, such as the Burnside Army bill, and demand its reading, which will occupy the morning hour not only on next Monday but on several Mondays following, and in this way he will, if Randall chooses to let him, prevent the introduction of a single bill as long as the session lasts. Now that may be an honorable method of conducting public business but the country will fail to see it in that light. Principles not tricks ought to prevail in Congress. Every man is entitled to a fair chance, and if Speaker Randall descends to as low a level as is predicted by his friends we shall be disappointed, and Mr. Frye ought to be ashamed of such subterfuges. If the hard money men of the two parties are so afraid of the little band of Greenbackers that they dare not let them offer a bill, they must be either a set of miserable cowards, or else have no faith in the principles which they support. A good cause will not be helped by such low arts, and public men should feel that they have a higher mission than to thus play the part of demagogues.

PERSONALS.

......The trustees of Racine College have undertaken to raise an endowment fund for that institution as a memorial of the late Rev. Dr. De Koven.

......Miss Genevieve Ward has made an engagement which calls for her appearance at the Historique, Paris, three weeks hence, and she will sail from New York on Wednesday next.

......Rev. Josiah Benton, formerly a Methodist minister, now living at Niantic, Conn., has had a severe attack of paralysis, and his recovery is doubtful.

......Clarence King, the director of the new Bureau of Genealogical Surveys in the Department of the Interior, is on his way to Washington from Oregon, to enter upon his duties.

......It is rumored in London society that Dean Stanley is about to join the church of Rome, being influenced by a sister who became a pervert many years ago, and who has acquired great influence over him since the death of his wife.

......Mr. George Hammond, an esteemed and well-known citizen of Wickford, while at work moving hay in his barn, Wednesday, was taken with a fit, from the effects of which he died in five minutes. The deceased was 73 years of age, and leaves a wife but no children.

......Miss Julia Eveline Smith of Glastonbury, Conn., the only survivor of the Smith sisters, celebrated for their resistance to taxation without representation, was married Wednesday to Amos G. Parker of New Hampshire. Both the bride and groom are in their eighty-seventh year.

......Attorney General Devens, while going to the theatre in Washington Thursday evening, met with an accident. The horses attached to his carriage ran away, smashing the carriage so badly that Judge Devens and his companion escaped from the wreck through a window without serious injury.

......Ngan, chief commissioner of the Chinese educational mission at Hartford, has resigned, and will return home for diplomatic promotion. His successor was Yung Yun Foo, but the latter has just heard of his father's death, which, according to Chinese etiquette, necessitates his retirement from official life for three years.

......The queen of the Belgians while in London, visited the Home for Lost Dogs at Battersea. Her majesty is a great admirer of small dogs, and is used to carry one always in her arms which is arrayed in a coat of the same color as her dress. Each time the dress is changed by the august lady the dog's coat is also changed by an attendant.

FALL RIVER.

Work is going on briskly at the Old Colony Steamboat depot. All the old buildings which have been used for a great many years as a file shop, was removed yesterday. The large warehouse known as the Lindsey Ship Store is to be removed to the head of Lindsey's wharf. Men are busy today on the work preparatory to its removal. A new car shed is to be built, two hundred feet long and fifty feet wide. At the Pond street crossing, workingmen are taking up the old sleepers, and putting in their place new ones. This is a march in the right direction and will better insure the safety of the passengers who travel over this road.—[Record.

Swinburn, deceased, to George B. Hazard, who was the highest bidder, for the sum of $275., above a mortgage of $266.66.

AN EMINENT COMPOSER.

William Vincent Wallace, composer of the opera of Lurline, selections from which will be given by the Newport Choral Society on Tuesday evening next, was born in Ireland in 1815. His father was master of a military band, and an excellent practical musician.

Young Wallace soon excelled in playing band instruments, and at the age of 15 could play with extraordinary excellence the piano-forte, the violin, the clarinet and guitar. His position in Dublin brought him in contact with Paganini, and Catalani, to whom he is indebted for kind encouragement and judicious commendation. For three years he occupied a high position in Dublin, and had the honors of directing the first performance of Beethoven's "Mount of Olives" in Ireland.

After a season of adventure Wallace visited London, and became popular as a pianist. While there he concluded to write an opera. "Maritana" was produced, and met with a success far beyond the most sanguine hopes of the composer. His second opera "Matilda of Hungary," called forth admiring comments from the best musical writers in England. The success of these productions attracted the attention of the continental musical world, and he received an invitation from Vienna to superintend the production of "Maritana." The opera was carefully rehearsed, admirably performed, and was received with more public enthusiasm in Vienna than it even met with in London. Wallace studied assiduously while in Germany and wrote the greater part of his grand opera "Lurlei." His fourth opera was "The Maid of Zurich." Two others are known, "Gulnare" and "Olga."

The next commission came from the Grand Opera at Paris. Elated with the bright prospect, he sought out St. George and from him procured a libretto. Full of the subject, he began the work, but before the first number was finished, that calamity, which of all calamities he feared the most, overtook him and he became blind.

The opera of Lurline is believed by competent judges to be one of the most valuable musical works in existence.

THE FALL RIVER LINE.

THE EXTENDED REPAIRS ON THE STEAMERS BRISTOL AND PROVIDENCE—$100,000 EXPENDED IN PUTTING THEM IN ORDER—IMPROVEMENTS TO THE ENGINES, BOILERS, ETC.—NEW FURNITURE AND CARPETS.

As already announced the boats of the Fall River line, Bristol and Providence, will take their places on the route on the 20th inst. Since last October both boats have undergone extensive improvements and repairs at this place and we learn from the management that about $100,000 has been expended in putting the "floating palaces" in order for the season of 1879. Part of the time more than 300 workmen, performing all kinds of work imaginable, have been employed, which, to say the least, has been a godsend for our mechanics during the winter.

The hull of the Providence has been new plank sheared throughout and parts of the rail have been renewed and several new guard rails added. The decks have also been extensively overhauled. All defective parts of the hog frame have been removed and new timber put in their places and that together with the gallows-frame has been refastened. She has also received new wheel bulk-heads. The planking on both sides of the hull has been minutely overhauled. Her extensive boilers have been partially rebuilt, making them as good as new. Six new furnaces, new tubes and new tube heads have been added. New middle and back connections have been added and also new "up-takes," parts of the base of the chimney, have given place to those in use last year. She has been supplied with a new donkey engine and smoke stacks. The shells of her boilers are about one-third new. She has been supplied with the new Ryder grate and shaking bar, a great improvement over the old styles.

The Providence has been supplied with a new steam steering gear, put in by Mr. George Reynolds, the superintendent of the Delamater Iron Works Company of New York. The cylinder of the gear is thirty-two inches in diameter and coming out of each end is the piston connected with the rudder chain valves in the pilot house by wire ropes. The apparatus has already been tested and works to perfection. It can be worked and handled very readily and the wheelsmen can now move the boat out of the way of passing vessels and other obstacles with great rapidity. It can be handled as easily as an hoisting engine. This much needed arrangement for steering purposes will be placed on the Bristol should it work satisfactorily on her consort. It does away with the services of several workmen.

The woodwork of the Bristol has been submitted to a thorough inspection and like that of the Providence it has undergone a thorough and systematic overhauling and it can be said with truth that her hull is as good as it was when she was first launched. The engine has been minutely examined, it being taken apart for that purpose. The piston and working beam, which weighs twenty-five tons, were taken out and landed on the wharf in order that the work could be performed to a better advantage. The piston was placed on board of the steamer Albatross and was to be taken to New York for repairs. The night was unusually rough and by some unforseen move of the steamer the rod was lost overboard. This necessitated the purchase of a new one. Her boilers have been overhauled and tested by skilled workmen and they have been pronounced in first-class order by the Government Steamboat Inspectors. She has received twelve new furnaces, new tubes and new tube heads, smoke stacks, new donkey boiler and new middle and back connections. All her valves have been thoroughly overhauled and her engines were never in a better condition than they are at the present, thanks to the valuable assistance and advice of the master mechanic of the line, Mr. George Pierce, who is, evidently, the right man for the responsible position which he holds. He is fortunate in having sober, industrious and intelligent workmen to carry out his instructions and the company is to be congratulated upon the morale of their numerous employes.

Both boats have been neatly painted inside and out and they look "nobby" in their new spring suit. The gilding, decorating, etc., has been made to look as good as new under the superintendence of Mr. James Pearson, the veteran painter, who has had charge of the painting of the boats for several years. The gas fixtures and chandeliers have been "touched up" and made to look very attractive.

All the stateroom doors have been provided with burglar-proof locks and it will be impossible for the light-fingered gentry to ply their vocations in the future.

The carpets and furniture have been renovated and replenished with new where needed. The majority of the mattresses have been made over and it is noticed that the company have been very liberal in the expenditure of money for the upholstering and furnishing department.

The following figures show the amount of iron etc., used in the boiler department and elsewhere for the improvements of the boats:

60 tons iron boiler plates.
5 tons of rivets.
3 tons socket rivets and bolts.
8½ tons wheel rivets.
6 tons bolts and nuts.
25 tons bar iron.
2½ tons steel.
10 tons white lead.
180,000 feet of timber.

The company was never in a more prosperous condition than it is at this time. Extra boats are used for freight while scarcely a night passes but what there are numerous applications for additional staterooms. One night recently there were 500 passengers on the Old Colony and for some time it has been no uncommon sight to see the saloon floors covered with mattresses. The interests of the company are in good hands at this end of the route. Mr. John H. Jordan, the agent and manager here and at Fall River has made hosts of friends by his unswerving fidelity to his employers and by his uniform courtesy to everybody who has business with the line. He is always found at his post of duty to answer the thousand and one questions which are put to him.

The company enter upon the season of 1879 under very favorable auspices and with its increased freight and railroad facilities will reap a deserved harvest as a result of its enterprise and popularity with the travelling public.

THE TEETH.

BY MABEL B. SANDERSON.

[For the News.]

Digestion begins at the mouth, so the teeth are the first organs of digestion and they are also the chief organs of mastication. They are held in the gums by the roots and are composed of a bone-like substance called ivory or dentine. The ivory is quite soft and so the portion which projects from the gum, called the crown, is covered with a very hard substance called enamel, and it is so hard, that were it to strike a piece of flint the sparks would fly. If it were not for the enamel, the teeth would soon wear away, for they have to work very hard. Each tooth is entered at the root by a blood vessel and a nerve and when the nerve enters the tooth it is no larger than a hair; if it is sound it is of a greyish white color, looking something like gristle only somewhat softer. The nerve is the life of the tooth and when it is dead the tooth generally turns black.

Some times people are born with a full set of teeth, as was Richard the Third of England.

We have two sets of teeth; the first are called the milk, or temporary teeth, for we need them for only a short time and while we have them, milk is our principal article of food. There are ten teeth in each jaw, and as we grow older the gums recede from the teeth and as they do not grow, the roots are absorbed, so that these teeth fall out.

Care should be taken that the first teeth of a child are not extracted too soon, for if they are the hole where the tooth was, shrinks and so the teeth of the next set are likely to lap over each other, and there is equal danger in not taking them out soon enough, for then the second teeth will come out wherever they can and so will be very irregular.

The second set of teeth, called the permanent teeth, come in place of the temporary ones. There are thirty-two in all, sixteen in each jaw. The four front teeth are called incisors or cutting teeth, for they cut up the food. On each side of the incisors we find a long, pointed tooth called a cuspid, eye or tearing tooth. These teeth, for there are two in each jaw, are connected with the eye by an artery, so dentists do not like to pull them out, for they bleed profusely. Next to the cuspids come the bicuspids or small grinders, four in each jaw, and next to them are six molars, three on each side; the last two of these are the last teeth to come of all the thirty-two. They do not come till we are about twenty-one years old and they are generally very painful when they are coming and while they stay, which is not very long, they are quite troublesome. They are called wisdom teeth.

Different animals have differently formed teeth, and the animals are divided into three classes. Man is called an omnivorous animal, meaning all-eating, for he eats both animal and vegetable food. The cow, sheep, goat, etc., are called herbivorous animals, for they live on grass and herbs. The dog, cat, wolf, etc., are carnivorous animals, for they feed on flesh and their teeth are long and pointed so they can tear their food. The teeth of the cow, etc., are broad and flat, like our molars.

The upper jaw is stationary, so all the movements are made by the lower jaw. There are three motions, first the vertical, or cutting, second the lateral or grinding and last the to-and-fro motion. The omniverous animals have all of these, the herbivorous have two of them, the lateral or grinding and the to-and-fro movement, the carnivorous animals have one, which is the vertical or cutting motion.

Fishes have teeth but they are generally very small and vary from one to one hundred.

Birds have none. The food is taken up by the bill and swallowed and it finally passes into the gizzard where it goes through a process something like grinding, the birds instinct teaches it to swallow little stones or pebbles, which help the grinding process.

The teeth are very useful. First they help us pronounce certain letters, called dentals, (they are d, s, t, g and th) plainly; next they preserve the symmetry of the face, for when people have no teeth, the lips and cheeks fall in or look sunken, for there is nothing to preserve their shape, and they also masticate our food and were it not for them dentists would have no business.

There should be more attention paid to the hygiene of the teeth, for they are very useful to us.

In the first place the teeth should be kept clean for nearly every trouble with them comes from want of cleanliness. After eating, they should be thoroughly brushed and it is well to draw a piece of uncovered rubber elastic between each of them for little particles of food are apt to lodge in and between the teeth. Waxed thread, silk, etc., are not as good for this purpose as rubber. Pieces of food, if they are allowed to remain will finally turn into animal matter which eats into the teeth and no tartar should be allowed to gather for it is injurious as well as untidy.

Metallic tooth-picks and gritty tooth-powders are apt to break the enamel, which when once broken will never form again and great extremes of heat and cold will crack the enamel.

We should take great care of our teeth in every way so as to keep them as long as we can and keep them looking as nicely as possible, for many faces are quite spoilt by the teeth, and a set of good clean teeth are a great addition to any person's face.

THE MAYORALTY.

To the Editor of the Daily News:—

If one was not somewhat familiar with the non-partisan feeling heretofore so excessively exhibited by the parties now managing the Burdick movement one might have some faith in the honesty and good feeling expressed in the present call for votes without distinction of party—if the movement for Mr. Burdick is not a strictly party movement it must be a "What is it?" A call for Republicans to meet at the several ward rooms to choose delegates to a Republican convention is drawing the lines as distinctly as state and National conventions draw them, only those conventions don't have the face to ask support "without distinction of party." Let no Democrat or Independent be deceived, for if the movement for Mr. Burdick is successful, it will be proclaimed as another great Republican victory. Democrats, Independents and citizens, do not be led by the ear like a truant school boy.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE.

The Royal Baking Powder is a pure Cream of Tartar powder, made from pure Grape Cream Tartar, imported exclusively for this powder direct from the wine district of France. An old experienced housekeeper writes that, although she has to pay a few pennies more for the "Royal," finds that it goes much farther and works much better than saleratus, soda, or cream of tartar.

☞ Most of the Cream of Tartar of commerce is adulterated with Alum, Terra Alba, etc. Doctors pronounce Alum most dangerous to health; its costs but 2½ a pound, Cream of Tartar over 30c. The Royal Baking Powder is recommended for its wholesomeness by such eminent chemists as Dr. Mott, New York: Dr. S. Dana Hayes, Boston. Sold only in cans. All Grocers.

☞ BAKING POWDER should never be sold in paper packages, as it becomes stale and deteriorated upon exposure to the atmosphere.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed, made and executed by Charles Worth to the Conanicut Land Company (Rebecca M. Worth, wife of said Charles, joining therein in release of her dower,) dated April 10, 1874, and recorded in volume 7, pages 245, 246 and 247, of the Mortgage and Land Evidence of the town of Jamestown, in the State of Rhode Island, (the condition of said mortgage having been broken), Said mortgagee will sell at public auction, on the premises hereinafter described, on Wednesday, May 7, A. D. 1879, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, all the right, title and interest which said Charles Worth had, at the time of the execution of said mortgage, in and to the estate and property hereinafter described (with the inchoate right of dower of the said Rebecca therein), to wit:—"That certain lot of land situated in that portion of the town of Jamestown, state of Rhode Island, known as Conanicut Park, with the cottage house and all other buildings and improvements thereon, and marked No. sixty (60), on the southerly side of Clinton street, on a plat of said Park, made by John H. Mullin, and on file in the office of the Town Clerk of said Jamestown, to which reference is hereby made."

Said mortgagee hereby gives notice that it intends to bid upon said property at said sale thereof.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed made and executed by William G. Peckham of Newport, in the state of Rhode Island, (Mary H. Peckham, wife of said William, joining therein in release of her right of dower in the mortgaged premises) to the Savings Bank of Newport, dated February 2d, 1869, and recorded in Volume 7, at pages 650 and 681 of the Mortgages, Land Evidence of said Newport, which said mortgage was on the 7th day of December, A. D. 1878, assigned by the said Savings Bank to John N. A. Griswold, of said Newport, the undersigned will sell at public auction on the premises and property hereinafter described, at 12 o'clock noon, on Saturday, May 3d, 1879, the lands and premises hereinafter described, except such parts thereof as have been released from the lien of said mortgage, and all the right, title and interest which the said William G. Peckham had therein at the time of the execution of the said mortgage, and the inchoate right of dower of the said Mary H. Peckham therein, (the condition of the said mortgage deed having been broken), to wit.:

"All the following described real estate, to wit: all and singular the lands and wharves (with all and singular the buildings and improvements thereupon) conveyed to said William G. Peckham, by Charles Devens by deed dated May 1st, 1849, recorded in Volume 27, pages 442, 443 and 444 of the Land Evidence of the city of Newport, in the State of Rhode Island, and by deed dated July 19th, 1853, recorded in Volume 31, pages 183 and 184 of said Land Evidence, and by Benjamin G. Hunt by deed dated October 16, 1857, recorded in Volume 34, pages 52 and 53 of said Land Evidence and by Nathan M. Chaffee, by deed dated February 15th, 1865, recorded in Volume 38, pages 331 and 332 of said Land Evidence, all which deeds are hereby referred to and made a part hereof for more particular description of said granted premises."

And the undersigned hereby gives notice to said William G. Peckham, and to all others interested that he intends to bid at said sale, upon the lands and premises herein advertised for sale.

STATE OF RHODE ISLAND AND PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS.

NEWPORT, Sc. CITY OF NEWPORT.

WHEREAS, Wednesday, the Sixteenth day of April, 1879, is by the City Charter of the City of Newport, the day designated for holding the Ward Meetings for the election of City Officers, the Electors of said City qualified to vote for General Officers are hereby notified to assemble in their respective ward meetings on the day aforesaid at half past six o'clock in the morning, at the following-named places:—

IN THE FIRST WARD—At No. 2 Engine House, Bridge street.
IN THE SECOND WARD—At the State House, (lower floor.)
IN THE THIRD WARD—At a store in the front of the Opera House, Touro street.
IN THE FOURTH WARD—At No. 8 Engine House, Prospect Hill street.
IN THE FIFTH WARD—At the Ward Room, Young street.

For the purpose of giving in, as they may be severally qualified therefor, their ballots for one elector of said City for Mayor; for one elector of their respective wards to be a member of the Board of Aldermen; for two electors of their respective wards to be members of the Common Council; for one elector of said city, for City Marshal; for one elector for Street Commissioner; for one elector for City Treasurer; for one elector for Superintendent of Public Schools; each for the term of one year from the first Monday in June next; and for four residents of said city to be Public School Committeemen for the term of three years from the first Monday in June next.

AND WHEREAS, the City Council of said city at a meeting held on the first day of April, 1879, passed the following resolutions, namely:

Resolved, That the following proposition be submitted to the electors of this city qualified to vote upon any proposition to impose a tax or for the expenditure of money, at the ward meetings to be held on Wednesday, April 16, 1879, viz:—"Shall the City Council be authorized to purchase for a price not to exceed one thousand dollars the estate on the southerly side of Bridge street, next east of the No. 2 Engine House building, and to remove and sell said building, and to erect upon the site thereof and on the estate aforesaid, a Brick Engine House and Ward Room, at a cost not to exceed Five Thousand Dollars.

Resolved, That the City Clerk shall provide for the ward meetings aforesaid a sufficient number of ballots whereon shall be printed the words of the proposition aforesaid, and upon one half of the whole number of said ballots shall also be the word "YES," and upon the other half the word "NO."

AND WHEREAS, the said City Council at its meeting aforesaid passed the following resolutions, viz:

"Resolved, That the following proposition be submitted to the electors of said city qualified to vote upon any proposition to impose a tax or for the expenditure of money, at the ward meetings to be held on Wednesday, April 16, 1879, viz: 'Shall the City Council be authorized to procure a suitable location and erect thereon a new City Hall at an expense not to exceed Forty Thousand Dollars, to be paid for out of the finances of the city or by the issue of bonds of the city as may be deemed most desirable.'"

"Resolved, That the City Clerk shall provide for the ward meetings aforesaid a sufficient number of ballots whereon shall be printed the words of the proposition aforesaid, and upon one half of the whole number of said ballots shall also be the word 'YES,' and upon the other half the word 'NO.'"

The electors of said city qualified to vote upon any proposition to impose a tax or for the expenditure of money are hereby notified to give in their ballots at the above named places in their respective wards on said Wednesday, the 16th day of April, 1879, either for or against said proposition.

All the ballots so voted or given in upon the propositions aforesaid shall be sealed up at the close of said ward meetings and returned to the City Clerk on the same day, and at the next meeting of the Board of Aldermen shall be opened and counted, and the result made known by the Mayor by proclamation.

AND WHEREAS, the Board of Aldermen of said city at a meeting held April 7, 1879, upon the petition of certain electors passed the following resolutions, viz.:

Resolved, That the following proposition be submitted to the electors of this city qualified to vote for General Officers at the ward meetings to be held on Wednesday, April 16, 1879, viz.: "Shall the Board of Aldermen of the City of Newport grant licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors within said city."

Resolved, That the City Clerk shall cause to be provided a sufficient number of printed ballots for said ward meetings containing the words of said proposition, upon one half of the whole number whereof shall also be the word "YES" and upon the other half the word "NO"

Resolved, That all the ballots voted or given in upon the proposition aforesaid, shall be sealed up at the close of said ward meetings and returned to the City Clerk on the same day by the Wardens and clerks of the several wards, and at the next meeting of the Board of Aldermen shall be opened and counted, and the result made known by the Mayor by proclamation

The electors of said city qualified to vote for General Officers are hereby notified to give in their ballots at the afore mentioned place in their respective wards on said Wednesday, the 16th day of April, 1879, either for or against said proposition.

Said ward meetings according to law will be kept open until HALF PAST SIX O'CLOCK IN THE EVENING and no longer.

Witness my hand, this 7th day of April, A. D., 1879.

A Miner's Thrilling Story.

BY BARBARA BRANDT.

[Written for the Newport News and Journal.]

A long, low, dark old kitchen, up among the New England hills in the heart of winter.

Outside, the winds are careering fearfully; driving the snow and hail in fierce gusts against the narrow window-panes, and rumbling with the sound of thunder in the broad-throated old chimney.

The hour and place are weird and eerie to the two young girls who are here as guests, and who are thinking with a wistful yearning of the cheerful home far away.

There are only four occupants of the quaint old room; the two young girls of whom I have spoken, a mild-faced middle-aged lady who is nodding drowsily over the long blue stocking which she is knitting; and opposite her, in his own particular corner by the fireplace, a man whom at first glance, one would designate as "neither old nor young," but with a bent form, and seamed, rugged looking face, that spoke plainly of many hard conflicts past. At present his only occupation seems to consist in watching the glowing, dancing firelight, and the blue curls of smoke which are ascending lazily from the queer old brown pipe which he is smoking.

This is John Reeves, the son of our hostess; a strange, silent man, who has wandered for years up and down the earth; now a sailor, visiting many foreign lands, then home again for a summer's work upon the old farm; tiring of this after a few weeks, wandering off to look for employment in the great city, and failing in this attempt, he is next heard from in the mining regions of the far-off West, where he spends two or three years of varying fortune. He is now home once more "to stay" as he says; but the wrinkled, sad-faced mother only sighs and shakes her head to this and patiently keeps on knitting.

The wind rises and the storm buffets the house more fiercely.

Poor homesick sister Nellie pulls the little stool on which she is sitting close to my feet and cuddles her head in my lap, with a half-choked sob, that seems to attract the attention of the silent man in the chimney corner, for turning his heavy eyes upon her he says:

"I wonder what's set me to thinking so much today about my old mate up in the mine there. I can't account for it unless Miss Nellie's blue eyes have done it."

Half surprised at the remark, yet somewhat encouraged by the unusual softness of his name—I venture to say, "Oh Mr. Reeves do tell us something of your life in the mines, we are so lonesome here tonight."

John Reeves puffs silently at his pipe for a moment longer, then without further words, he begins his story.

"Yes, I remember, 'twas in that same sorrowful winter o' '63, when our provisions and our courage was both a failin' together, that it came about.

Why what would you think of it, you dainty-kept young women, to turn out o' your bunk in the mornin', where you'd almost froze stiff with the dreadful cold, with nothin' but great peaks o' mountains in sight, and the dead white world outside? no tree, nor shrub, for miles and miles away, and the awful mountain silence all around ye? 'Twas a feelin' as if this great earth in spinnin' round, had dropt you off onto some spot o' space, and left you there forever.

"We were thankful in them days for a'most anything to eat. What with flour at a dollar a pound, and everything according, 'twas a 'yaller day 'on our books, when we got a handful o' flour to make our soup, as we called it, I'll tell you what it was like. Made o' nothing but the gravy from our bacon, lengthened out all 'twould bear with water, and then thickened up a bit with the flour. That was a great dish for us, for bacon and beans was our bill o' fare three times a day constant then, 'cept as I tell you when we got the bit o' flour.

"I call to mind now, when we traded off our last ounce o' flour one day, for a hand o' tobacco, and free enough it went too, for it had been weeks and weeks then, sence we'd a taste o' tobacco amongst us, and that had ben the lonesomest part o' the whole winter to us, you can believe.

Here John paused long enough to re-fill his pipe, thinking doubtless of the long weary time, when he was deprived of what seemed to him a necessity and comfort.

After some moments, which he spent in watching the blue smoke wreaths drifting slowly away above his head, he drew a long deep breath, and resumed his story.

"Wall! along towards spring, things seemed to be growing darker than ever about us. 'Twas next to impossible to get provisions over the mountains, and that bitter weather was awful to bear 'on an empty stomach' as you might say' 'Twas sorrowful work to be shut away all day, from the blessed sunlight, down feet upon feet under ground, workin' and slavin' out one's life, in the hopes o' strikin' a pocket, or at least gettin' out rock enough to make a little stake; for all that awful winter, we was lottin' upon makin' jest enough, to get back East, where we could settle down in some kind o' ease and comfort for the rest o' our days.

"I hadn't any particular object to work for myself, but my heart ached in them days for my poor mate, when times seemed to be gettin' harder and harder with us, and I knew his hopes o' gettin' home in the spring was growin' slimmer and slimmer, and knowin' too, as I did, that a pair o' blue eyes back there in the States was lookin' wishfully off to westward every day for the letter from Ned, that would say, 'I'm a comin' home.'

"Well one night,—'twas after a hard day's work in the mine where we'd been to work since early mornin', wet to our skin, and without much to eat or drink;—as I was a sayin', that night when we'd come back to our cabin, tired and hungry and discouraged, I thought I noticed a queer look on poor Ned's face, as if with all the discomfort we was a sufferin', he had some bodily ail along with bein' heart-sick too. And when I talked a bit to him about it, he turned me off with a short answer, which was new to Ned, for he had a womanish kind o' heart, and was slow to hurt one's feelin's by hasty kind o' speech.

"I let Ned alone after that, and 'though he didn't say much, and seemed kinder mopin' and downcast till bedtime, I didn't appear to notice him, thinking it was better so.

"Poor mate; he'd been kinder low-spirited ever sence the last mail come up and his usual letter from his little sweetheart hadn't come with it. I could see he took that sore to heart, and when I tried to cheer him up he only looked at me with a kind o' wishful look, and didn't say a word.

"He'd been gettin' in a queer way. Lately he'd left off smokin' and chewin' which two would have been a great comfort to him if only he'd hold on to 'em.

"The evenin' moved along and we turned in after a while, but what with the terrible cold and the worriment o' mind, I was a feelin' I couldn't sleep, and as I laid there I could hear Ned a moanin' and tossing in his sleep, and it made me feel lonesome like, for I thought spos'n Ned should peg out now what could I do up here all alone in this dreary cabin? I tell you then's when I begun to feel home-sick, but I got to sleep before morning and after a good nap I felt in better spirits, and I thought Ned chicked up a bit after I'd got a cup o' hot coffee down him.

"But I made up my mind not to leave Ned that day and go into the mine, as he seemed so lonesome like.

"After the sun had been up a'while I went outside o' the cabin to look about a bit. It was a cheery kind o' morning for them parts, for the sun shone bright and clear and the thermometer had taken a bit of a rise in the night; and some how things had a better look to me.

"'Most all the men in our camp was down in the mine, only a few 'cept them at the windlasses was above ground, and I noticed that they all seemed to be lookin' up at somethin' above their heads. I looked up too, and in the still blue air, right over our camp, I see the most beautiful,—somethin',—and many another man who was in the camp with me that day, would swear to the truth o' what I tell you,—somethin' flyin' and floatin' there, that was not a bird, nor, nothin' else you ever see, but somethin' bright and glitterin' and shinin' like silver. There wasn't no particular form nor size to it. It would seem to float down, down, down, for miles, for you know dears, in that section, you can see miles away, the air is so rare and clear,—and then all at once 'twould seem to shift in form and size, and takin' a little cant sideways 'twould float off to the right or left a little way and then comin' back again, 'twould seem to hover right over our little cabin.

"There 'twould stay a minute or two lookin' like some giant snow-white bird, flutterin' and plumin' itself, while all the air round it seemed to kinder quiver and pulsate, and look radiant like.

"I can't explain to you just what I mean, but it seemed to me, as if there was a presence about it, that was a beckonin' and callin' to somebody.

"There was pretty rough men in that camp, some on um. But 'twasn't long before every man above ground stood there with head uncovered, shadin' his eyes with his hand, and lookin' up at the beautiful sight. More'n one among um drawed his sleeve across his eyes as he looked, for 'twas a somethin' to give you a home-sick feelin' though you couldn't tell why.

"All to once I thought I heard a deep breathin' behind me, and when I looked 'round there was Ned settin' by the open door, lookin' white as a ghost, but starin' with all his eyes at the vision.

"Come inside mate said I, layin' my hand softly on his shoulder, you'll get cold out here—which wasn't what I was afraid of, but I see what the Scotch call an uncanny look about his face, and I didn't want him to feel superstitious about the appearance.

"But Ned never noticed me, nor turned his eyes for a minute from the sight, and I see how quick and fast his breath came, as he watched the beautiful thing, as it quivered and dilated, and seemed to beckon for somebody.

"Now while we was all a lookin' and holdin' our breaths almost, it begun in a slow way to go up, up again growin' smaller and smaller, but keepin' all the time that luminous look and seemin' still to beckon one to follow.

"I turned toward Ned by and by when it had grown to be only a little speck and I see how he was watchin' still with all his heart in his eyes, but I see too a strange' bluish look on his face that I didn't like.

"Come mate, says I, you must come in with me. He started up and looked at me like one you'd waked from nightmare. Then he turned once more to the vision that was now most out of sight and put out his arms as though he'd like to gather it into his arms and I heard him say softly, to himself like, 'I wont keep her waitin'.'

"I led him into the cabin and helped him into his bunk, for he seemed weak as a baby and when I tried to talk to him or to get him to take a bite to eat, he only turned his face to the wall.

"I went outside again soon and found the men all talkin' together about the wonderful vision we had just seen and almost every one allowed it must have been an angel.

"Some one said 'twas a warnin' of worse times to come in the mines, while some who had had better luck, and so kept better spirits, would call it a token of good luck to come soon.

"I went inside soon and took one more look at Ned. He seemed to be sleepin' so I didn't disturb him but thought I'd go down into the shaft again and use the pick for a while. I did so, but I felt heavy-hearted all the day till just as I was thinkin' of goin' home again we struck a pocket.

"Oh! what a jump my heart gave when I thought maybe now we'll see home in the spring after all, and I tell you I started for daylight as quick as I could and I run up to the cabin full of the happy news I had for Ned.

"I pushed open the door and went up to Ned's bunk boisterous and happy.

"Rouse up, old fellow, says I. Here is wonderful news old mate. Little Blue-eyes shunt wear herself out with watchin' no longer; wake up, I say.

"I wondered a minute at the quiet but I said, Ned thinks I'm foolin' so I took hold of him to roll him over, a bit roughish maybe, and brought his face up to the light.

"Oh, my dears, that was the sorrowfulest minute of all my life. Poor Ned. I'd gone out and left him and he'd gone away into the dark and cold all alone. He was stone dead! When I took hold of his poor limp hand it dropped away from mine again like a stone and his eyes stared straight at me without seein' me.

"In a minute it went all over me like a flash of light that it was my poor mate was wanted when the angel come, for I knew then it was an angel we had seen, and he had known and understood the call, and this was what he had been waitin' for all these days that he had seemed so changed and sad.

"We made what preparation we could in that rough spot and next day, as night was comin' on, we laid him in his lonesome grave.

"But somethin' strange happened just before the prayer was read over him. The mail come up and they give me two letters one for Ned and one for me.

"I broke his open so's to get the address of some friend of his at home for I know I must write the sad news to um and when I come to read the letter everything that had happened look clear as noonday.

"'Blue-eyes' was dead! full three months ago, about the same time the change had come to Ned she had sickened and died in a sudden way, before they thought she was in danger and this was the first news they had written to Ned.

"I thought her passin' spirit called Ned to herself three months ago but he didn't heed it then, and so her beautiful angel had called him today. Of course I could talk to the men around me about it but I knew it all the same.

"We laid the letter, and her picture, which we found beside him in his bunk, in the box with him. It seemed to me, it would be company like for him, along the lonesome road he had to go. Somehow in 'Blue-eyes' picture eyes there was a kind o' appealin' look, that said she must keep him company. So we buried them together up there, in that awful white solitude and silence of the white mountains. It seemed lonesome leavin' him there, though I know 'twas all light and beauty where he met and joined hands with his darlin'. "I left Nevada soon after, 'twas so lonesome after poor Ned died, and the cabin seemed so still, I couldn't bear to stay, so as I'd make a little stake there, I started with the warmer weather for 'Frisco where I took steamer for home."

There was a silence for a few minutes broken only by an occasional moan of the wind, or the faint tinkle of a snow-flake against the window-pane, for the storm had nearly spent itself, and night and silence were settling down upon the earth.

The silence was broken at last by Grandma Reeves, who went softly about covering the still glowing embers of the fire and lighting bed-room candles. And in the hush that followed the story, Nellie and I kissed the old lady good-night and went softly up to our room.

A young man of Teutonic parentage got a marriage license at the Court House a few days since, and remarked, as he turned to go: "By Shorge, this is the most handiest gourt house in the guntry. You gits your marriage license in this room, und den you can shstep right into Shudge Yades's room and get married, und den you can yoost go up shtairs in the Zircuit Gourt und get a divorce."—[Peoria Call.

LAWNS AND GARDENS.

THE "ARTIFICIAL ASHES AND ARTIFICIAL YARD MANURE" are greatly to be preferred to stable dressing for lawns and gardens. 1st—Because they contain all the elements of plant food, and are therefore suited to all soils and all crops. 2d—Because they do not introduce foul seeds and coarse grasses. Many a man seeds his garden with weeds, and ruins his lawn by the ordinary appliances. These artificials are also cheaper than the originals. They may be ordered at George A. Weaver's, on Broadway, or of the proprietor, at the Daily News office. a9

ARTIFICIAL ASHES.

Made up from the best grades of chemical fertilizers on the basis of leached ashes as sold in the market.

ARTIFICIAL YARD MANURE.

Made of similar materials so as to contain all the elements of plant food and in the same proportions as in stable manure.

Both have been thoroughly tested and with entire success. Being complete manures they are adapted to all lands and all crops. Not an ounce of sand, loam or other refuse is added for adulteration, and the price at which they are sold is not above the cost of the several ingredients when purchased by the single ton. Put up in bags or barrels for $40.00 a ton for the Ashes, and $50.00 for the Yard Manure. At these figures the plant food in one is as cheap as in the other. Further particulars given in answer to inquiries.

Artificial Ashes!

THIS FERTILIZER is made up on the basis of good Wood Ashes and contains all the elements of Plant Food that are found in Ashes, and in the same proportions. A thorough trial has shown that its use is equally beneficial and much more economical.

Artificial Yard Manure.

This article is composed of such materials as furnish a mixture containing all the elements found in stable manure and in the same proportions. When it is desired to enrich the soil it is necessary to add certain ingredients such as potash, phosphoric acid, ammonia, soda, magnesia, etc. These are all found in the Artificial on the same basis as in stable manure.

The cost is less than in purchased yard manure and at least twenty per cent. less than in some of the most popular commercial fertilizers. Neither of these articles have an ounce of sand, loam or refuse added for the sake of bulk or weight. Each farmer is left to make his own reduction in strength.

No such articles as dried blood, fish, animal meal, etc., etc., are used to obtain nitrogen as in many other cases

Good corn was raised last year on light land by the application of $15.00 worth to the acre. It was also used in several Newport gardens, and on numerous lawns with excellent effect.

Were these articles diluted like others sold by weight the price could be made accordingly. With the present strength and purity the Artificial Ashes will cost $40 a ton, and the Artificial Yard Manure $50.00. At these prices the fertilizers come at a less cost than the several ingredients can be bought for by the single ton, were the farmer to mix them himself. Besides, in this case in buying so much at a time, low prices are not only obtained, but the cost of analysis can be afforded by which it is known that the articles used are as represented.

These are complete manures suited to all soils and all crops, which are the only ones that can be used in safety. Partial fertilizers, like fish, may force an immediate crop but are sure to exhaust the land.

For sown crops and seeding nothing can be better than the Artificial Ashes. It is also exactly suited to pastures and meadows. For hoed crops the Artificial Yard Manure is to be preferred.

Orders may be sent to the undersigned at the office of this paper. Terms cash. Circulars sent on application.

STEAM HEATING.

THE GAS LIGHT COMPANY have added to their Gas Fitting Department the business of heating buildings by steam. The cost of steam apparatus has hitherto proved a bar to its general introduction; but at present, ordinary houses can be fitted with steam appliances for a small advance on the cost of a furnace. The superior healthfulness of steam heat, its admirable distribution, economy of fuel, and perfect self-regulation are points in its favor, which far outweigh the consideration of a small additional expense for the apparatus. Parties building, or desiring to change their mode of heating, are invited to apply at the office of the company, and obtain estimates of cost. Cellars too low to admit a furnace can have our boiler set up in them.
